

MARILYN CAVICCHIA

I Can't Find Jolly Ranchers Anywhere in Australia

When I turned on my car radio, the Prince song “Blue Eyeshadow Is Making a Comeback” finally happened. Northern Minnesota in all its fall glory: At work today, I created a bunch of spreadsheets.

These are some of the troubleshooting tips: I will be embarrassing and make farm animal noises, reading the comments on a post regarding Justin Timberlake.

The last thing I want to do is dress up like the mechanic repairing my brakes. He has yet to do anything, so I'd say she has a headache and went to bed. Morning inspiration: My gum has lost its flavor, expired in 2013. Almost finished.

Marilyn Cavicchia lives in Chicago and is an editor at the American Bar Association. Her childhood was spent mostly in two OH towns, and included a brief stint in northern MN. Her work has recently appeared or is forthcoming in Oddball Magazine, The Same, and Armarolla. Follow Marilyn at marilyncavicchia.com or on Twitter: @MarilynCavi.